SENATOR BURTON SAYS
HE VIOLATED NO LAW.

Demurrer to Indictment Argued, but Judge Adams Does Not Render Decision.

Judge Adams Does Not Render Decision.

Judge Adams in the United States District Court listened to argument on the denurrer of United States Senator J. R.
Burton of Kansas to the Indictment charging that he used his influence with the Pose-Office Department to protect the Rialto Grain and Security Company, from 10 o'clock yesterday morning until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. No decision was o'clock in the afternoon. No decision was rendered, but as Judge Adams announced from the bench that he would leave the city Tuesday for a month's vacation, he Unless Delinquents Pay Suit Will may announce his decision Monday, Senator Burton was in court. In his demurrer he acknowledged that he, had accepted $2,500 from the Rialto Grain and Security Company for services as an attorney, but denied that he used his influ ence as a United States Senator to further the ends of his clients.

Senator Burton contended, through his attorneys that no law of the United States was violated by him; that the United States was not directly or indirectly interested in the matter of the issuance of an order which would serve to stop the transmission of mail to and from the company, and that no question of Government interest or policy was involved.

Volved. District Attorney Dyer met the argument of attorneys for the defense upon the basin that it was the general aim of the United States to prevent members of Congress from using their influence with any of the departments of the Government for private purposes. He contended that by his own admissions Senator Burten had violated the statutes and should be held to answer.

Now for the last and final attempt to clear the decks of every piece of Winter merchandise in the house. We've been eminently successful thus far in remedying our overstocked condition that has existed since the holidays. We've disposed of all of our Winter Goods with the exception of many odd lots, which must absolutely and immediately disappear to give way to the new Spring wares that are arriving daily. These further and final reductions for Monday ought surely make short work of them.
